A.M.A. Answers Fallow, Denies Political Motive

Main Objective: Better
Roads and More Tourists

Officers of the Alberta Motor Association have issued a statement in reply to the published report of a speech recently delivered in the Legislature by Hon W A Fallow, Minister of public works and highways.

Mr Fallow is reported to have said of the association that it had degenerated into a poorly camouflaged political organization whose political purpose is to embarrass the government.

The association statement signed by president James Clave follows:

The Alberta Motor Association is a purely non political body whose directors give their services without remuneration of any kind for public purposes one of the main objectives being the securing of better roads throughout the province and the encouragement of a large influx of tourists from whose visits all will benefit. It has never acted from political motives. It desires to co-operate to the fullest extent with the government of the province towards securing these objects for the benefit of our motorist, business organizations, tourists farmers, and inhabitants generally.

The A.M.A. is working also in co-operation with other non-political bodies such as the U. F. A., the Union of Rural Municipalities, the Alberta Motor Transport Association, boards of trade, etc. to secure better roads.

Many of our members and supporters are of friendly to the government in power, and we realize that the premier of this province has been indefatigable in his efforts to promote and protect the interests of our people. Its record should not be spoiled by bad roads.

The hundreds of new members who are joining our association month by month and the many hundreds more whose support we expect to obtain in the coming months are supporting the efforts of our association for the construction and maintenance of roads throughout the province, for the benefit of every citizen.

'FANTASTIC' STATEMENT

The minister is further reported as saying that from 1931 to 1945 over $79 million had been spent for highway purposes, an expenditure of nearly $31½ millions greater than the revenues for those years. This statement can only be described as fantastic. It is entirely at variance with audited public accounts published by the provincial government.

The annual financial statements of the province show that from gasoline and motor taxation since the year 1922 up to and including the year 1940, all capital and maintenance expenditures on the roads, including 5 per cent interest on all borrowed money, and $100,000 per year (or $1,800,000 for the period) for expenses of administration had been fully and completely repaid to the province not by the taxpayers as a whole, but exclusively out of motor licenses and gasoline taxes.

From 1941 to date, on an average approximately 21½ million more dollars have been collected each year solely from motorists than have been expended by the government both for capital and maintenance on the roads of this province.

SHOULD BE WELCOMED

If a loss of $1¼ million had been sustained by the government, as stated by the minister, the frequent requests of our association, that the gasoline and motor taxes should be devoted exclusively to road purposes and road expenditures limited by their amount, would have been welcomed instead of being refused by the minister of highways.

It is with the utmost confidence that we invite all Alberta Motor Association now, and to use their influence in every direction to secure its desirable aims and objectives.

THE FINAL LESSON

I have sought beauty through the dust of strife,
I have sought meaning for the silent ache,
And music in the grinding wheels of life,
Long have I sought, and little found as yet,
Beyond this truth, that Love alone can make
Earth beautiful, and life without regret.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

Automobiles will be banished from the Island of Sark when British troops have departed.

The year-old fire ban on sending wedding presents out of the country has been lifted—except for snites of furniture.

Full-scale production of gold, expected to play a major part in Australia's future economy, is being revived in the Commonwealth.

There are still 50,000 live mines in the Mediterranean and more than 10,000 of them in the Aegean Sea, says Cmdr. E. Sworder of the British Navy.

The New Zealand government has offered 10,000 tons of food valued at £1,000,000 ($4,500,000), as a gift to Britain, Acting Prime Minister Walter Nash announced.

The Montreal city council passed a by-law prohibiting smoking in department and other large stores in the city. The measure was taken to reduce fire hazards.

Britain has transferred five German destroyers and two torpedo boats to France, the foreign office said. The ships were part of Britain's allocation from the German fleet.

The automotive industry in Britain is aiming at exporting 50 per cent. more cars than before the war. Lord Nuffield says that his factories are hoping to export 1,000 vehicles per week.

England now has 240 oil wells, producing about half a million barrels of crude oil a year. They were drilled during the war by an Oklahoma contractor for the British government.

Empress Nagako, following the example of the Emperor in an apparently planned program to democratize the Japanese royal family in the eyes of the people, visited a hospital and orphanage in the Tokyo area.

To All Parts Of Empire

Botanical Research In Britain Aids Whole Commonwealth

Professor Salisbury, director of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew, says live specimens and seeds are sent to Kew from all parts of the Empire and are re-distributed from there. Kew's contribution to the establishment of plantation rubber and Cinchona in various parts of the Commonwealth and Empire is well known.

One of the most interesting of other economic plants to new areas may not be so generally realized. Sir Geoffrey Evans, Kew's economic Botanist, conceived the idea of removing the rose ends of potatoes and partially drying them to serve as seeds, instead of cutting large potatoes into smaller parts. Thus much of the crop can be used as food and still provide material for planting. These seeds weigh less than one fifth of those normally employed, and thus permits of carriage by air, the method having been successful in the transport of potato sets to Malta and other Mediterranean countries. An entry in the Kew records, dated August 1864, shows a consignment of cocoa pods to West Africa, probably the first introduction of that plant to West Africa, and eleven varieties of West Indian cocoa were sent to Ceylon, where they grew and fruited well. Ceylon now grows some of the world's best cocoa. The "Kew pineapple", the Smooth Cayenne now widely grown throughout the tropics was imported from Kew as was the Macadamia or Queensland Nut. Kew's Research Workers have been able to produce and export high quality and disease-resistant bananas, cassavas and passion fruit.

War-time needs stimulated the search for sources rich in vitamin, and Rose hips from the hedgerows of Britain were investigated and as a result a syrup was produced with about five times the vitamin content of orange juice.

Work is being carried out at Kew on the production of rubber from dandelions.

These few examples out of many will show the vast range of subjects and diversity of services to the Commonwealth and Empire performed at Kew.

NATURAL QUESTION

An Englishman touring Canada was staying in a wayside hotel. One night it was very cold and the Englishman, feeling it pretty badly, came downstairs early next morning to get warm. At the same time a trapper, who had been out looking at his traps, came in at the door. Icicles were hanging from his moustache and with a plying expression the Englishman looked at him and exclaimed:

"By jove, old man, what room did you sleep in?"

OUTLOOK NOT BRIGHT

Lack of wheat is by no means the whole of Europe's hunger story. Estimates published in the Wall Street Journal place this year's meat production on the continent at 43 per cent. of the pre-war volume, cheese at 47, eggs at 48, milk at 37, France's grain crop at less than 60 per cent.

LOOKING FORWARD TO NEW LIFE IN CANADA—Cpl. John Wolpe, the "stateless" German Jew who joined the Winnipeg Rifles as an unofficial soldier in Europe, arrives in Winnipeg aboard a hospital ship. The 27-year-old hero arrived unheralded as a full-fledged member of the Canadian army and a Canadian citizen. He still has a limp, the result of a machine-gun wound in his right thigh. Cpl. Wolpe, whose first name is Hans but which he changed to John because Hans was "too German", has adopted Winnipeg as his future home because of his association with the Rifles.

A Colorful Bazaar

Londoners In Search Of Bargains Go To Petticoat Lane

"Keep your 'ands in your pockets," smilingly warned a grey-haired woman vendor at the entry to Petticoat Lane, London's "Sunday bazaar," as her sharp eyes spotted green-horns.

At first glance this badly-blitzed street in London's east end looks like the crowded midway of a Canadian fair on a pre-war Labor Day. The games and rides are missing but Petticoat Lane has its own side-shows.

Pushcarts, piled high with practically anything from accordions to wrist watches and presided over by salesmen who may be British 8th Army veterans still in uniform, or old men and women, line the street handle to handle.

Londoners, in search of bargains, push and shove their way between them, some licking ice cream cones, others, munching sandwiches, and many just staring.

Petticoat Lane is open for business Sundays only from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Each week it echoes with the sound of feet thudding on the brick road and the hoarse pleas of the salesmen.

Uniformed policemen patrol the sidewalks behind the barrows while plainclothes detectives mingle with the crowd, on the alert for light-fingered wayfarers.

Goods are displayed haphazardly. One cart groans under a load of used clothing, including a tattered girdle. Next to it is a cart on which perfumes are carefully arranged, tended by two solemn East Indians complete with turbans.

Stockings, which the salesman described as silk sell for sixpence (12 cents), a pair, plus one clothing coupon. Adjoining, a woman calmly cleans chickens, while next to her the crowd thickens around an ice cream cart.

Farther on a broad-shouldered, big-chested giant in a turtle-necked sweater tells a throng about the evils of weight-lifting and other forms of strenuous exercise.

"Ten years ago I predicted so-and-so would die. Well, he died didn't he?" he demands.

Significant Name

The Teutonic Meaning Of Eisenhower Is "Iron Cutter"

In welcoming General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of the Allies on the Western Front in the defeat of Germany, Dr. H. J. Cody, Chancellor of the University of Toronto, made a happy reference to the significance of the name of the great soldier-statesman. A paragraph from the Chancellor's eloquent speech will bear quoting: "One curious historical parallel intrigues me today. In the year 1066, William the Conqueror invaded England to claim his Crown. The forces of the Normans and the Saxons joined battle where Battle Abbey now stands. Before the Norman host rode William's minstrel to incite his men to fight by singing portions of the Chanson de Roland. The minstrel's name was Truilfer; it means a cutter of iron. Nearly nine hundred years later another man led English-speaking armies across the English Channel from England to overthrow a merciless tyranny that held as under hars of iron the peoples of Western Europe. He was born in the New World thousands of miles away, and his name was Eisenhower. The meaning of that Teutonic name is 'Iron Cutter'. He went forth to cut the bars of iron and set the people free."—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

RATHER FUSSY

As the inquisitive man sat on a seat in the park he watched a shabby individual coming along picking up cigarette-ends.

Then the tramp sat down on the seat and began sorting his spoil. Presently he threw quite a long one away. This was too much for the curious looker-on.

"Excuse me," he said. "That looked a good one. Why did you throw it away?"

The tramp drew himself up proudly and replied: "It ain't my brand."

The first money mint probably was established in Lydia toward the end of the eighth century, B.C. 2663

Scientific Methods

Used To Develop Farms In Russia's Sub-Arctic Area

The frozen tangle of Soviet Trans-baital is being used to make trappers of the sub-Arctic area self-sufficient. More and more collective and state farms are being developed.

Typical is a collective farm at Zeiskonchursk in the Chita region, formed three years before the war by several hunters and their families. Their curiosity was first aroused by a visit to the Chitka Experimental Station where scientists were studying the potentialities of the frozen soil.

The trappers decided to start their own. The first year they had 15 acres in production from which they produced three tons of wheat and 20 tons of vegetables, but by 1943 they were self-sufficient in wheat and were able to deliver 125 tons of wheat and cats to the state.

During the war, the farm, called Novaya Zhizn (New Life), doubled its sown area and produced potatoes, enenibers, tomatoes, cabbage and melons in addition to grain.

The farm also is experimenting with stockbreeding and has three farms for cattle, hogs and sheep.

ENJOY THEIR TEA

There are 1,000 tea houses in Chungking, and all are busy from dawn to dusk. Businessmen and go-sips, lovers and farmers and even the ricksha coolies order their cup of tea and call again and again for boiling water as they chat or rest. And always in the tea houses are the fortune-tellers.

The focal point of Sunday's dinner can tastefully be fresh or pickled tongue, simmered until tender and served hot with an orange-raisin sauce. Whipped potatoes and green beans will complete a top of the stove meal. And you should be able to calculate on left-over tongue for week-day lunch service. The first inroads on your week's ration will be made on Monday, with 5 tokens for one pound of minced round steak, the basis of well-seasoned, crisply browned meat cakes. Now that the dried bean family is making a more plentiful appearance on most markets, Tuesday's meatless main dish might well be a casserole of limas or navies. Fresh-from-the-oven whole wheat muffins and a mixed salad should assure a meal of nutritious and appetizing goodness. Minced beef and veal make a pleasing combination for a meat loaf. For variation, line the bottom and sides of a loaf pan with your favorite meat mixture, fill the centre with a good bread dressing, and cover with the meat mixture. After Wednesday's dinner, you should have on hand the solution to a luncheon problem. Thursday's lamb stew, topped with dumplings, is toothsome fare for six tokens. And by Friday the wheel of good eating revolves to fish. With almost half your ration intact makes Saturday an opportune time to satisfy the family's penchant for a juicy steak. Even so, you'll have to your credit seven tokens to augment your purchases if you have a guest night, or to help out with next week's roast day.

Time Will Tell

Battleship Will Soon Be Useless Is Opinion Of U.S. Admiral

Like the dinosaur, the battleship has outlived its climate and its age, according to Admiral John H. Towers, the new commander of the United States Pacific fleet. Admiral Towers says that only two American battleships ever fired a shot against Japanese ships in the Pacific war. They were useful in anti-aircraft defence and in bombing enemy islands but this could have been done just as well and less expensively by other smaller ships.

In the near future, the Admiral believes, atomic bomb tests in the Pacific will finally show that the battleship is obsolete.

If he is right, one of the great legends of the sea is passing—the mighty floating fortress which seemed to be the ultimate safeguard of all maritime nations. The battleship of the future, carrying the fire power of the atom bomb, will fly.—Winnipeg Free Press.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

The true standard of quality is seated in the mind; those who think nobly are noble.—Isaac Bekerstaffe.

We must form perfect models in thought and look at them continually, or we shall never carve them out in grand and noble lives.—Mary Baker Eddy.

If a man be endowed with a generous mind, this is the best kind of nobility.—Plato.

The generous who is always just, and the just who is always generous, may, unannounced, approach the throne of heaven.—Lavoisier.

He who gives what he would as readily throw away, gives without generosity; for the essence of generosity is in self-sacrifice.—Sir Henry Taylor.

There never did, and never will exist anything permanently noble and excellent in the character which is a stranger to the exercise of resolute self-denial.—Walter Scott.

Timely Advice

Strong Nations Should Be Eager To Help Weak Neighbors

There is an obvious symbolism in the collapse of war-damaged buildings in Vienna in the face of a storm that in normal times would do no more damage than blow the dust from the cornices or dislodge a loose board or two. Now when the rains come and the winds blow, the buildings fall. Then months after the war Vienna adds nine dead and thirty-four injured to her list of war casualties.

The falling buildings of Vienna are symbolic of so much of the world today, a world whose very foundations have been racked by six years of the most brutal and devastating war of history. Some of it still remains a fairly imposing facade, but that is no guarantee that the supporting walls and the foundation still are sound. It behooves those of us who still live in sound houses to continue with unremitting vigor to bolster the obviously weakened buildings of our neighbors, or help them in building new and better houses on the ruins of the old.—New York Times.

"COME, Rafe," Rufus, "we've got to thresh this out and we better do it now. It's you or I—can't be both. May hurt." He sighed deeply.

"You bet. If we have to split, let's face it chin up. I feel queer, Rufe."

"S'pose it had to come sometime. Let's go up to the Roost."

Rufus was the Randal twin whose curly brick red locks up-thrust belligerently. Rafe's hair waved gently, less independent than Rufus's but no less subdued in color. Ever since they could climb and had important matters to debate the twins had their private sanctum. It was in the great barn loft on the hay mow where a hollowed out space in front of a window afforded the needed seclusion.

At seventeen plus these boys were six feet tall. Somewhat gangling as yet, but their broadening shoulders indicated their future proportions. Their movements, gaits, were alike, their voices almost identical and their very thoughts seemed congeneric. Their mother looked at them helplessly and wondered 'how come'. Their father watched them going on and up, young giants tottering him a good inch with no stopping place in sight.

"They reached the barn and swung up on the hay to their lair disposing themselves for earnest conference."

"Rafe," Rufe began, his voice trembling a little from emotion, "this is hard. We haven't had girl trouble yet. Now we're struck down. Looks like a parting of the ways. We don't know which one she'll like. I know she's the only girl for me and if she doesn't choose me, I'll have to go away and become a world wanderer or a sailor or something."

He heaved a sigh that set his heavy hair in motion. The freckles on his nose stood out in bold relief.

"Yep," his brother answered, "the way she stuck to us at the party showed we made a great hit. She didn't expect to meet anybody like us out here in the country."

"I bet she didn't," Rufe spoke decidedly. "Any more than we expected to get knocked off our feet. Look at these country wenches beside her. She is so—so—well, polished, or—that's it—a woman of the world. She's just about our age. That shows. The one she chooses will have to get ready to get married. She's the one for us—er—me of us."

"Perhaps she'd rather not wait. Maybe she'd like to elope," dreamily, "girls like romance. Well, Rufe, if she chooses you, I'll help all I can even if I have to watch your happiness while my heart is breaking. I shall always lead a single life."

Another deep sigh.

"We've always done things together," said Rufe, "nothing must really come between us ever. Whoever loses must suffer in silence. Nobly. How different everything is. In—in—evitable. Only one can get her. We can offer our hearts and hands, our lifelong devotion, on our knees I s'pose. Maybe we better practice getting on our knees."

"That's right, I guess. We can begin when we get done here."

"Gosh, Rafe, can't you see her? That gorgeous black hair, eyes swimming in beauty. Like soft velvet—you know, like that gown of Ma's, her grace, her sweet and gentle voice like trees murmuring in the breeze, her tones of sweetest music a'tearing up my heart."

"Just where did you get that?" asked Rafe, eyeing his alter ego suspiciously.

"Read some poetry. Takes you right off the earth. Eyes of moonlight, teeth of pearl, hair of midnight, peerless girl."

"Huh, you never read that, you goon," with a grimace, "you made it up or something—er—I s'pose you'll be telling her that?"

"Do you reckon she'd like it? To show my adoration—my—my consuming love?"

"I shall spread my cloak for her dainty feet to walk on like Sir Walter Raleigh, and tell her I'm her knight to the death. Any task she gives me to perform—"

"Where'll you get the cloak?" interrupted Rafe rudely.

"My coat, then. Well, we've got to do something. If we weren't brothers, we could fight a duel."

"Duel—gosh, Rafe. How about getting dressed up tonight and go together and say, 'Here we are your faithful knights. Please choose between us your own true love. Put us out of our suspense.' What she'll have us do to show our devotion, it shall be done for we—one of us—is hers forever."

"That's swell, Rufe. Good way to start things and we'll go on from there. Think how happy she'll be. Say, what was Nancy telling you last night?"

"She said I was a moonstruck ass and I said she little knew the pangs of love. The wound by Cupid's dart shot out to kill, for her sweet sake my blood I'll spill. Oh! When I think what's happened to me!"

"Me too. She almost said right out she was losing her heart." Rafe sounded exultant.

"She said that to me too, Charlie—" Rufe rolled the word out—"isn't it a wonderful name? Just fits her. Did you call her Charlie?"

"She asked me to. Sweet name. My sweet Charlie." Rafe's smile was reminiscent.

"Yeah. She asked how she could ever tell us apart. I said, just pick the one who is your adoring slave, who clasps you round with love, who worships you so far above. I didn't know then you were hit too. She—just laughed."

"You're a fast worker, boy. Listen! It rests so sweetly in my heart, the gentle name Charlie. I dream of when she will be mine, to love, adore, caress."

"By jinks, Rafe, do you s'pose we'll turn into poets?" Rufe was startled.

"Love will do anything. Think she'll want us to dye our hair?"

"She said she loved our hair. Showed great personality, was very distinctive," Rufe crowded.

"We better go down now this is settled. We'll have to get the chere done early so Dad won't suspect. What d'you reckon he'd say?"

"Well, one of us will be left him. Listen, there's a car. Can you see who it is?"

Rafe twisted his head almost out of the window. "Gosh, Rufe, it's her—Charlie. She's come to see us."

"Couldn't wait, I bet. Who's with her?"

"Dunno. Pull yourself together. We've got to go, nobody home."

A car was entering the driveway. In it was a vivid, black-haired girl who looked eagerly at the house. Her companion was a serious-looking young man with a likeable smile, several years older than herself. They got out of the car. She called:

"Yoo hoo—anybody home?"

Rufus and Rafe came from the barn with bay and straw clinging to various parts of their garments. Rufe's hair stood out in all directions and resembled burning brushwood. Rafe looked sheepish. They greeted their lady friend with some diffidence.

"Oh, hello boys," she said. "I'm going home tomorrow and wanted to say goodbye. This is my fiancé, Alan Gordon. Alan, Rufus and Rafe Randal. They were sweet to me at Mona's party. I had such a lovely time."

"That was very nice of you. Glad to meet you both," smiled Mr. Gordon and shook hands heartily. They exchanged a few commonplace remarks. Charlie said:

"Well have to go. Alan came to take me home. We're going to be married next week. Look us up when you come to town. Goodbye and good luck!" Handwaving, they drove away.

"Clare, that's quite a pair," said Alan. "Unusual one might say."

"You see why I wanted you to meet them, But Alan—" with a side-long glance, "I did have a good time."

"I imagine you did," he said with an amused laugh. "I'm ashamed of you."

The twins stared at each other for several minutes after the visitors had gone. Then in perfect unison they ejaculated, "Women!" in utter disgust.

"Rafe let's go fishing tomorrow."

"Let's," said Rafe. They looked at each other sorrowfully. Then simultaneously they burst into loud guffaws.

"Saved, by jinks."

SMILE AWHILE

Friend: "I understand your antagonist is calling you every name he can think of."

Politician: Yes, but he hasn't much of a vocabulary.

"Remember my boy," said the wealthy uncle, "that money does not bring happiness."

But the young man was ready for that one.

"I don't expect it to," he replied; "I merely want it so that I shall be able to choose the kind of misery most agreeable to me."

Mrs. Smith met her friend, Mrs. Jones out shopping and stopped for a chat.

"I hear your husband has taken up the violin," said Mrs. Jones.

"Yes," said Mrs. Smith, "and he's doing fine with it. They've returned his oil can from next door already."

Two colored men were discussing the possibilities of safety.

"Sam," said Mose, "if you had your way, which would you rather be in—a collision or explosion?"

"A collision, of course," replied Sam promptly.

"How come?" asked Mose.

"Well, in a collision, dere you is; in an explosion, where is you?"

First Collegian—"Wanna hear the story about the broken lead-pencil?"

Second Collegian—"No."

F.C.—"Why?"

S.C.—"It has no point."

A Chinese cook was taking a walk through the woods when he noticed a grizzly bear following, sniffing his tracks.

"So," he said, "you like my tracks? Velly good, me make some more."

The visitor was leaving the art gallery after an hour's visit.

"And what do you think of our pictures?" asked the curator.

"I like the pictures fine," said the visitor, "but there aren't any jokes under them."

The Latest Discovery

Plastic Chewing Gum Is Another
Miracle Announced By Scientists

There seems to be no limit to the miracles of science. The latest discovery to make this a better world in which to live is plastic chewing gum. It will come in six delicious flavors, we presume—uranium, plutonium, neptunium, actinium, polonium, and raspberry.

Moreover, says the magazine Plastics, the new gum is moisture proof and nonstickable. This will present a parking problem to persons accustomed to sticking their gum under restaurant tables and theatre seats, but to every cloud there is a silver lining. At least it won't stick to shoes and clothing, either.

If, in addition to its other remarkable qualities, the plastic gum has bubble-blowing characteristics, it might be used to alleviate the shortage of ping-pong balls.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GARDEN NOTES

Informally Is Recommended

Usually an informal layout of flower gardens, lawn and shrubbery about the home gives the best results. The formal garden where there are straight rows, straight paths, and everything is just so is a matter for professionals and large estates. With the average lot in town or country there are too many straight lines in any case, like driveways, foundation walls and fences. The main idea in gardening is to break these and soften them. To do this shrubbery is planted in irregular clumps around, but not too close to, the house, with biggest groupings at the corner and around the front porch. Vegetables may be added by the odd climbing vine.

Unless the lawn is generous in size, experts advise leaving the centre fairly open, with flower beds and shrubs around the edges and in front of the fences and driveways. Generally the bigger and taller flowers are planted at the back, but for the sake of variety a few of these should be brought forward. Instead of single plantings groups of individual varieties are advocated. For continuous bloom, consult a good Canadian seed catalog where such details as season of blooming, color, height, hardiness and other essential facts will be listed.

Spacing The Vegetables

Vegetables divide themselves into general groups. There are little and quick-growing things like radish, spinach and lettuce. These can be planted in rows a foot apart when one is going to cultivate by hand. Carrots, beets, beans are a little larger and grow more slowly. Minimum space here would be about 15 inches, and rather more for the larger beans. Peas can be planted in double rows about a foot apart, then twice that much space until the next double row. Tomatoes require at least 18 inches when staked, and three to four feet if not staked. Corn rows should be at least 30 inches apart, and the same goes for potatoes; melons, cucumbers and small table squash do best in hills about 30 inches square and eventually about eight to twelve plants to a hill. Space between hills should be at least 15 inches to allow for spreading and cultivation.

An Early Start

One of the best short cuts is to start many flowers and vegetables indoors in hot beds or shallow window boxes, or to buy started plants from greenhouses and set these outside after danger of frost is past. Tomatoes, peppers, petunias, etc., have to be given this early start if they are to bloom or reach maturity in most parts of the Dominion.

For the home gardener, a shallow box in the window is the simplest solution. Take a box a couple of inches deep filled with light soil. Seeds are planted in rows an inch or so apart about a month before the plants would normally be sown or set outside. The box is placed in a sunny window, watered carefully and once the seeds have germinated and the first set of leaves have developed they are thinned to permit bushy growth. As the weather gets warmer the plants should be hardened off by exposing gradually to cooler air.

CANADIAN PROFESSOR SLAIN

—Dr. James C. Taylor, 31, distinguished scholar of Toronto, Ont., who died in hospital in Brisbane, Australia, was fatally injured in a street fray. En route to Melbourne university to accept a post in the department of philosophy, he went ashore at Brisbane when his ship docked, strayed unknowingly into a locality "notorious for hawls and disturbances." Police said he was either eluded or knocked down, his head striking the sidewalk. He was unconscious for a week.

Bad Mix-Up For Two War Prisoners At Singapore

This is the story of the Scotsman and the Australian who wound up in each other's homes by mistake.

Angus McGow, whose home is in Scotland, and Alec McGowan, of Australia, were prisoners of war in Singapore.

When they were being sent home Angus heard the sergeant call what he thought was his name and he boarded a ship. Alec answered what he thought was his name and boarded another ship.

It developed the men had answered for each other and got aboard the wrong ships.

Now Angus is in Australia and Alec is staying with Angus' mother in Perthshire, Scotland, and both are clamoring to get home.

Probably anyone who has ever heard an Army roll call will understand.

THE 22 MENACE

There have been several reports of late about the things that occur when irresponsible people get their hands on a gun. A horse belonging to Alma Hancock was shot and killed while Alma was loading hay and the horse still in the traces. Last fall a reputable citizen reported outlets going through the windows of residences. There is too much carelessness in the handling of firearms around the town. The local Rod and Gun Club have installed a shooting gallery in the basement of the Opera house and it would be well advised if the gun toters of the younger generation would avail themselves of the opportunity to shoot by doing it in the shooting gallery and under the proper supervision.

There must be something done to stop the damage soon before something really serious happens. Or at least some inducement given to get the boys to shoot under the proper supervision and instruction. Just the least bit of carelessness or a long chance taken can result in some very serious trouble for some unlucky person.

A GRAVE INJUSTICE TO OUR FARMERS.

One serious defect of the state control of products and of state marketing is that a Government can never set a price satisfactory to producer and consumer. Politics always enter into the picture. The government, therefore, being political attempts to be "all things to all men" and in the end succeeds in benefiting some, while inflicting grave injuries on others. We have today, for instance, four different Government prices for the same product wheat, i.e. 77¢, 78¢, 79¢ and 80¢ for the making of bread for Canadian people, the equivalent of $1.00 to farmers who buy wheat to feed to livestock, $1.25 to the wheat producer, and a maximum of $1.55 for export sales. The open market price for wheat, as registered at Chicago, is $2.01 in Canadian money. So grave injustices are done to our farmers. If wheat has to be sold to Europe at $1.55, a cheap price, and no doubt quite proper considering Europe's difficulties, why should our farmers alone have to pay the entire subsidy? Why should not farmers receive the open market price of $2.00 a bushel, and the difference between that and $1.55 to be paid for by all the taxpayers of Canada, and not only by our prairie farmers? Why should wheat growers alone subsidize cheap bread for all Canada and cheap wheat for the whole world?

WHAT'S WRONG WITH FRANCO

At the San Francisco Conference last spring Spain was not allowed to send delegates.

She was specifically pointed out as being unfit to be a member of the U.N.O. Reason her sympathy towards and help to the Axis powers. You will recall the refined insult Franco gave France when he telegraphed congratulations to Hitler when France fell. France will never forget this. Spain gave every help possible to both Germany and Italy until the tables turned. Then Franco grudgingly made a few concessions which he hoped would give Britain and United States the impression that he had remained neutral. No one was fooled.

Relations have been growing worse of late. Franco's high handed dictatorship has won him the bitter hatred of every socialist around the world. He has openly executed political prisoners and used military force to suppress every form of freedom as strict as the censorship is, enough news of his violence has leaked out of Spain to thoroughly arouse the leaders of the United Nations. He is between Mussolini and Hitler in a world that has just finished a terrific struggle to wipe out such forms of Government. France has been constantly irritated by Franco. He executed ten Spaniards, who had fought in the French underground. This murder stirred up natural heat in France and forced the Government to close the French Spanish border. Today Moorish troops are facing French legions along this border. A grave situation in a war weary world. United Nations have been asked to consider the matter but they have tabled it so far. Finally United States and Great Britain joined France in a declaration calling for Franco's ouster and the restoration of liberty in Spain. They called on him to hand over his power to a "caretaker" Government.

Franco's only reply was two notes, one denouncing Communism particularly in United States and France and the other listing a series of unfriendly moves made by France since her liberation.

Mass meetings continued across Europe demanding that the nation break with Franco. Perhaps the sharpest rebuke to Franco came from Francis Cardinal Spellman, who would not attend a Franco dinner as he passed on his way through Madrid back to New York.

Some hoped that Don Juan the pretender would make a deal with Franco and return as the King of Spain but Juan's envoy received from Franco has checked any further moves in this direction.

The countries are not yet ready to sever diplomatic relations with Franco but they are doing everything possible to encourage the Spanish people to get rid of him themselves.

On Tuesday the First Ward Relief Society held their 17th of March party which was very well attended in spite of the disagreeable wind. A lively program was presented which included Violin and Piano duet by Marie and Bernice Dahl, reading by Emma Redd, a broom drill by 12 Relief Society Ladies and was enjoyed by all. The last number was the one act play which Myron Holmes is entering in the festival. It was very well presented. Lunch consisting of bananas icecream and cup cakes

A.M.A. WILL ISSUE 100,000 STRIP MAPS

Preparations are being made by the Alberta Motor Association to issue more than 100,000 strip or sectional highway maps shortly. These maps are of particular value to motorists, especially those who are visitors to sections of the province with which they may not be familiar.

The map gives full information concerning the type of highway, whether paved, hard surfaced or earth, mileages along the route, official appointments of the A.M.A. such as garages, filling stations, hotels and auto camps. There is a great deal of data of considerable value to car drivers. Before issuing these new maps, the

A.M.A. makes a careful check with the provincial public works department to obtain the latest up-to-date information concerning the highways. Thus, every effort is made to provide authentic information, which is what the motorist needs and must have. These maps are distributed to branches of the A.M.A. in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge. They also will be available at hotels, garages and filling stations.

De-Nazification Of Germany

MANY EVENTS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE have taken place since the war ended. There has been the serious unrest in some parts of the world, the progress of the United Nations Organization, the trial and punishment of war criminals and other significant happenings, all of which have taken up public attention in recent months. While interest has been largely centred on these things, we are sometimes reminded of other developments which are less sensational, but nevertheless very important. One of these is the post-war administration of Germany, an undertaking which will have a profound effect on the future peace and security of the world. A report issued by the Director of the British Public Safety Branch early in 1946, gives some interesting facts concerning the progress which is being made in the British zone of occupation.

Progress Has Been Reported

A thorough process of "de-Nazification" has been undertaken in the area administered by Britain and considerable progress has been reported in this difficult undertaking. In the beginning, attention was directed mainly to eliminating Nazis from positions in the fields of administration, education, police work and public services, but it has now been extended to economic and industrial organizations. By the end of October, 1945, the de-Nazification of the banking institutions was virtually completed. At that time, out of a total of forty thousand bank employees, seven thousand had been removed, and some six hundred arrested. It was reported that the problem of removing Nazis from all positions, where their influence might prove harmful, necessitates the investigation of over three quarters of a million individuals.

Red Cross To Help Refugees

In addition to the task of eradicating Nazism, the British Military Government has had to deal with such problems as housing, and the provision of care for the many refugees in the area. To assist in the work of caring for refugees, permission has been given for the revival of four German welfare societies. One of these, the German Red Cross, was used during the war as a para-military service. It is now being reorganized, and with the other welfare agencies, will assist in the administration of relief "without distinction of race, colour or creed." In the future, organizations of this type will be permitted only if they are founded on a "sound democratic and religious basis," and have no traces of Nazi influence. These facts give some idea of what is being accomplished in the British zone of occupation, and of the progress of the very important process of de-Nazification there.

A Good Reason

Britain Gets More Shipbuilding Contracts Because Work Is Better

W. L. Clark, writing in the Windsor Star, says: There are two reasons why ships for Canadian companies are being built in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, instead of in Vancouver and other Canadian shipyards.

One reason is that some of the ships being built are to replace vessels sunk by enemy action through the war. These will be paid for by insurance money, which is held in a pound sterling pool in Britain. They are "hocked pounds" and must be spent in Britain. It is part of Britain's general program of rehabilitation of industry and the shipbuilding business is an important cog in Britain's machine.

The other reason is that better ships are built in Britain at lower costs. That is something the Canadian shipbuilding industry has to inquire into and rectify itself, if it wants to continue in the building business. It is all very well for shipyard managers to talk and for union leaders to orate and send petitions, but the best way for the Canadian shipyards to attract business is to buckle down and build better ships at lower costs than they do in Britain.

It may not be palatable to have to admit that Britain is superior in the shipbuilding industry. But, unless that is admitted, the root of the reason why Canada does not build more ships is not approached.

Snowflakes are transparent rather than white, but their crystals reflect light in so many directions they appear white.

Originated In Canada

New Treatment May Lead To Prevention Of Silicosis

Relief from silicosis has been afforded by use of aluminum dust inhaled into the lungs and researches said the new treatment, originated in Canada, may lead to prevention of the dread disease.

The Colorado University School of Medicine announced that treatments it is conducting gave relief to those who have contracted the disease by breathing air contaminated with rock dust containing silica.

Researches said that, to date, the treatment relieved symptoms of the disease, permitting patients to breathe in comfort, but did not effect a cure.

Similar experiments have prevented silicosis in animals, one of the researches said. He added that "in all probability" prevention among humans will be possible.

Credit for discovery of the treatment generally is given Dr. Bradley Irwin of the Banting Institute, Toronto, and Dr. Douglas Robson and Jim Penny of a northern Ontario gold mine. Initial reports on the treatment were published in 1937.

Answer To Last Week's Puzzle

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—What is the present coupon value for sugar-preserves coupons?

A.—Each sugar-preserves coupon may be used for the purchase of:

Fruit—Canned fruit 40 fl. oz., fountain fruit 24 fl. oz.

Honey—Cut comb honey 4 lbs., extracted honey 4 lbs., honey butter 2 lbs.

Jam—24 fl. oz.

Jelly—24 fl. oz.

Maple Sugar—4 lbs.

Maple Syrup—80 fl. oz. (for period March 1 to May 31).

Marmalade—24 fl. oz.

Molasses—2 qts.

Syrups—Blended Table Syrup 30 fl. oz., Cane syrup 30 fl. oz., Corn syrup 30 fl. oz.

Q.—The announcement I heard the other day on the radio stated that all purple butter coupons expired on February 28. I have some temporary butter coupons which I received from my son when he was home on leave from the army. Are these coupons of no further use?

A.—It was only the numbered purple butter coupons in ration book five which expired on February 28. All unnumbered butter coupons issued on a temporary basis are still valid.

Q.—The restaurant where I have been eating since the outbreak of the war has stopped serving butter with the noonday meal. Is it allowed to do so?

A.—Restaurants are quota users. They may use their supplies as they see fit. Your restaurant has evidently stopped serving butter because the quota was recently cut to maintain consumer rations while national supplies are low.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

ON WRONG TRACK

Two fifteen-year-old Chicago boys ran away from home, having stolen $40,000 from their parents. The father of one of them said that the lad "had a burning ambition to be a newspaperman." The boy is on the wrong track, says the Peterborough Examiner; nobody with the gumption to get hold of $40,000 would ever become a newspaperman.

"Yes, yes, of course I'm glad to see you—who's your cute friend with the crisp, crunchy, delicious Grape-Nuts Flakes?"

"Hi! Hi!—I fooled you Jim! That's our new cook. She won't serve anything but maitly-rich, sweet-as-a-nut Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes for breakfast."

"Well what are we waiting for? Let's get home quick and dig into that giant economy package."

"And don't forget that Grape-Nuts Flakes are made of two grains—wheat and malted barley. They give you carbohydrates for energy, proteins for muscle, phosphorus for teeth and bones, iron for the blood, and other food essentials. They taste wonderful. They're good for you. They're easy to digest."

A British Invention

Designed For Rehabilitation Of Blinded Men In Certain Industries

One of Britain's latest inventions is a Braille reading micrometer for the rehabilitation of blinded ex-Servicemen in certain industries. It was shown at the Gauge and Tool Makers' Exhibition held recently in London. This micrometer has been made by a Sheffield firm who were asked by Britain's National Institute for the Blind to apply Braille to a micrometer and thus enable those blinded men, who before World War II had been skilled tool and instrument makers, to carry on with their normal work.

Two designs were produced; they were used by blind craftsmen who offered suggestions which led to improvements. The instrument is based on the ordinary micrometer but the Braille characters on relatively large drums and by revolving these drums the blind men can "take the readings." The model shown is an English reading micrometer but the same principle can be applied to a metric reading micrometer. The system of gearing and drums, too, can be fitted as a standard attachment to any micrometer or micrometer head.

VALUED HIS SERVICES

The producer of a new play telephoned an unemployed but well-known actor at his lodgings and offered him £150 a week to play the lead.

"Not on your life," replied the actor, "I'll not look at it under £200 a week."

"Come to my office and let's talk it over," urged the producer.

"What!" replied the actor, "and get locked out of my room!"

VERY GOOD REASON

A portrait of George Washington by Charles William Peale, which the British took as booty from an American vessel in 1780, was bought at auction in London by Knoedler & Co. of New York—for $22,800. Asked his reason for selling, the Earl of Alhambra explained: "What reasons are there for selling anything in England today? You've got to do it to pay your taxes."

New Laws For Japan Approved By The Cabinet

TOKYO.—The Japanese government announced through Gen. Douglas MacArthur that it had drafted a new constitution abolishing the nation's right to make war and reducing Emperor Hirohito to a figure-head.

The new constitution, approved by the emperor and the cabinet of Premier Kijuro Shidehara, established government authority vested in elected representatives of the people.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Wataru Narahashi said the draft of the new constitution will be submitted to the new diet which is expected to convene about May 10.

The first article of the new constitution, approved by the cabinet after a stormy two-day extraordinary session, provides that:

"The emperor shall be a symbol of the state and of unity of the people, deriving his position from the sovereign will of the people."

The second article said the imperial throne shall be dynastic and succession shall be in accordance with the imperial house law passed by the diet.

MacArthur in announcing the government's decision said "the new and enlightened constitution has my full approval."

The proposed constitution leaves the emperor the following powers:

1. To appoint a prime minister as designated by the diet.
2. Promulgation of amendments to the constitution, laws, cabinet orders and treaties.
3. Convocation of the diet.
4. Dissolution of the house of representatives.
5. Proclamation of the general elections.

6. Attestation of the appointment and dismissal of ministers of state, ambassadors and other officials provided by law.

7. Granting of amnesty, commutation, punishment, reprieve and restoration of rights.

8. Receiving foreign diplomats and performance of ceremonial functions.

MacArthur said the new constitution was drafted "after painstaking investigation and frequent conferences between members of the Japanese government and this headquarters, following my initial directive to the cabinet five months ago."

NO DECISION YET

Prison Quarters For Kurt Meyer Depend On Accommodation Available

OTTAWA.—Except for preliminary negotiations there have been no further communications between defence headquarters at Ottawa and British officials over permanent prison quarters for Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, German S.S. division commander, given a life sentence after his conviction in connection with the shooting of Canadian war prisoners.

It was reliably learned there will be no further developments until the last elements of the Canadian army overseas are about to be withdrawn from Britain.

Meyer will be kept under Canadian military guard until that time. "But we'll have to have a decision on his disposition by that time," an official said. "If the British won't agree to keep him in a military prison in England or if a German civilian authority hasn't been organized to receive this type of prisoner by that time, then we'll have to bring him to Canada."

RIOT IN INDIA

Fifteen Persons Killed During Election In Bihar Province

BOMBAY.—Fifteen persons were reported killed in an election riot, followed by police action, near Ranchi, Bihar province.

Police firing on an Indian mob caused nine deaths while a clash between Congress supporters and workers of the Aborigine party was believed to have caused six.

At Cheyyar, in the North Arcot district, one person was killed when police fired on a crowd of 4,000 attacking a food supply centre after they had failed to get a particular brand of rice.

SUGGESTS CANADA

As Desirable Training Ground For British Troops

LONDON.—Maj. J. G. Morrison, Conservative member for Salisbury, in the house of commons said conscription was essential for Britain. Participating in a debate on defence policy, he suggested Canada could provide training grounds, "as she did for air training during the war." Britain was not large enough to accommodate training grounds and at the same time provide vital food.

GIFT FOR BRITAIN

MR. JUSTICE TASCHEREAU

MR. JUSTICE KERWIN

Majority opinion of the justices of the supreme court of Canada is that the federal government has the power to deport between 10,000 and 15,000 of the 24,000 Japanese in Canada. It is the unanimous opinion that the orders-in-council were intra vires, except as to the forcible deportation of wives and children of men being sent to Japan.

Americans May Occupy Germany For Ten Years

BERLIN.—Lt.-Gen. Lucius Clay, head of the American military government in Germany, indicated that the United States may be planning at least a 10-year occupation.

The U.S. military government has turned over to the Germans the task of de-Nazifying the American occupation zone.

During a press conference Clay explained that the new German de-Nazification law provides sentences as long as 10 years for major offenders.

A correspondent asked "Is this the first definite commitment that the United States will stay in Germany at least 10 years to see that these sentences are carried out?"

"The military government can commit the United States—yes," Clay replied.

Clay announced that the military government turned over to "responsible anti-Nazi Germans" the tremendous job of finding, purging and punishing 2,000,000 Nazis who thus far have eluded the denazification drive in the American zone.

A 25-page German written and German enforced law for "liberation from national socialism and militarism" was established to punish scores of German industrialists and financiers who were not indicted as war criminals but without whom Hitler would have been powerless to wage war.

The law was scheduled to be signed at Munich by the minister presidents of three American-occupied countries who submitted the plan for military government approval and who will be responsible for its enforcement.

Clay predicted the new law eventually would affect 25 per cent. of the 16,000,000 Americans in the United States zone and would result in a half million trials and thousands of appeals.

The law covers all of American-occupied Germany except Berlin and Bremen.

The law requires registration of all Germans over 18 years in the American zone and the grouping of registrants into five categories.

VISIT DECIDED

Field Marshal Montgomery Will Come To Canada In September

VANCOUVER.—D. S. Montgomery, Vancouver barrister and brother of Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, said the great British soldier now definitely expects to visit Canada next September as a guest of the Dominion government "and it is altogether likely he will come to Vancouver."

(At Aurich, Germany, last November 27, the field marshal announced he would visit Canada "in the spring", but it is assumed this had to be postponed because of his later appointment as chief of the Imperial general staff).

The news came in a letter just received by his brother from the former Sir Bernard Montgomery, who was elevated to the peerage as Viscount Montgomery of Alamein in the King's new year's honors list.

He will take over his duties as chief of the Imperial general staff in June and expects it to be "a terrific job," the letter said.

EDMONTON.—A winter carnival circuit, similar to the class "A" summer fairs, may be established in western Canada it was reported, following a meeting of representatives from the major prairie and western coast cities.

RESISTANCE WEAK

Spanish Government Supporters Feel Their Position Is Secure

MADRID.—Few persons in Madrid are aware of the tripartite note issued to Spain by United States, Britain and France. No prior written communication was handed to the Spanish ministry of foreign affairs by the British ambassador, Sir Victor Mallet. Hence the first news of the note received by the Spanish government was a broadcast from London.

The usual course of action in these cases is first to study the matter in all its aspects and then to map out the lines of comment which the press must follow and then issue the news, simultaneously with editorial comment, one, two or even three days late.

Political quarters remark the key to the initial reaction among both supporters and opponents of the present Spanish regime must be found in the fact the note leaves the initiative for the next step with the Spaniards themselves.

Government supporters feel strong enough to quash the slightest move by the resistance movement, which is weak from lack of leaders, arms and means of expression.

The opposition feels that the note does not carry its aspirations much farther, except morally.

Some observers say the note has been issued at a moment when the French closing of the frontier has rallied around Francisco Franco a large body of Spaniards normally uninterested in politics, who strongly resent interference by the French.

WASHINGTON.—Attorney-General Tom Clark reported that the largest annual increase in serious crimes in the United States in 15 years took place during 1945. Serious crimes jumped 12.3 per cent. over 1944.

STUDENT KILLED

Explosion In Chemistry Laboratory Injured Teacher And Two Others

KIMBERLEY, B.C.—Dorothy Callaghan, 17-year-old high school student, was killed and the chemistry teacher and two other pupils injured in an explosion in the chemistry laboratory of the Kimberley high school.

The explosion, which sent Silao Muraro, teacher, and Richard Scull, of nearby Chapman camp, and Arthur Christenson, to hospital with cuts suffered from flying glass and shock, was believed to have resulted from an experiment. Both boys are 17 years old.

There was little damage to the classroom and no fire resulted.

ALL A MISTAKE is the Russian explanation of the London hotel listing of Jacob Sornitz as Soviet ambassador to Canada. He is the new Russian ambassador to Brazil.

COMES IN LIKE LION, GOES OUT LIKE LAMB—Nylon Day came in like an atomic bomb but after the initial hysteria women throughout Canada settled down to a business-like pursuit of the hose. Hungry for that caressing feel of nylons, Catherine Campbell didn't wait until she got home to try on the precious pair she bought. She changed in phone booth.

U.S. AMBASSADOR TO MOSCOW

—New U.S. ambassador to Russia is Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, formerly Gen. Eisenhower's chief of staff in western Europe. He succeeds W. Averell Harriman, who resigned soon after returning to Washington from Moscow.

Two Views On Churchill Talk Sharply Opposed

LONDON.—Two sharply opposed views emerged in London as the first reactions to the speech delivered by Winston Churchill, former British prime minister, at Westminster college, Fulton, Missouri.

One described the Conservative leader's speech as advocating what is virtually an anti-Comintern bloc grouped around an Anglo-American military entente. The other believed Mr. Churchill was mainly concerned with urging that Britain and the United States, in agreement, should at once come to an understanding with the Soviet Union on the limits of its post-war expansion program.

But, whether applauding or condemning, political observers here recognized that Mr. Churchill's speech was inspired by an urgent desire to prevent the disaster of a fresh war by giving warning of a danger he believes to be real. To this extent, he is considered to have spoken as an elder statesman of wide experience rather than as opposition leader in the house of commons.

The speech was considered significant here that Mr. Churchill described his disappointment with the post-war record of Soviet Russia in terms of Soviet policy in the whole of eastern Europe and in the far east and not purely in terms of Soviet violation of the Anglo-Soviet-Iranian treaty of alliance of 1942.

Many Conservatives thought Mr. Churchill had expressed in a telling way his view to the need for friendship between the two English-speaking nations.

One Conservative comment was: "The greatest figure on defence has made the greatest speech on defence—and made it outside today's parliamentary debate. (The house of commons was discussing defence policy.)"

PARIS.—French observers predicted Winston Churchill's speech will get a cool reception from the extreme left in France but will encourage those circles which think the time has come for a "showdown" between the western powers and Russia.

The British wartime prime minister's proposal for an international air force was believed likely to meet with approval of all parties.

A MODERN TOUCH

Young Saskatchewan Trapper To Carry On Business With Plane

EDMONTON.—A youthful trapper and mink rancher from western Saskatchewan, 22-year-old Zane Palmer, of Meadow Lake, is planning to link his business interests in modern style.

He operates a mink ranch 30 miles north of Meadow Lake, and a winter trapline 70 miles to the northwest, and plans to branch out into spring muskrat trapping in an Alberta area east of Athabasca. To do so he has bought a cabin aircraft and is taking flying instruction here.

Palmer hopes to take his private pilot's tests shortly, go home for a visit and then continue training for a commercial licence. His mink ranch is at Waterhen Lake, where his father also is a fur rancher. There is a small lake near the trapline base camp, and Palmer thinks he can get in and out of the areas successfully in his plane.

GANDHI'S OPINION

Fasts For Political Ends Are Condemned By Indian Leader

BOMBAY.—Mohandas K. Gandhi, writing in his weekly newspaper, Harijan, condemned various fasts for political ends now taking place or threatened in India.

"There would be an end to all decency and reason if such fasting became effective," he said. "As author of fasting as a weapon of passive resistance I must state that I cannot give up an opinion honestly held, even if the whole world fasts against me."

British Farmers Have To Change Plans For Crops

LONDON. British farmers, gardeners, and even the humble allotment amateurs are busy with the "dig-against-famine" campaign.

Responding to urgent appeals of the government again to grow more food, they are working as they worked during the days of the battle of the Atlantic when every ounce of food grown at home was an ounce less exposed to U-boat attack.

Farmers who thought to turn their land to more remunerative crops have abandoned dreams of larger profits and less work and are preparing to plow up their land to sow cereals as soon as the snow disappears.

The National Allotments Society has called upon allotment holders and small gardeners to grow 110,000,000 ($44,500,000) worth more food this year—although their contribution to the country's supply is already estimated at between £20,000,000 and £30,000,000 annually.

For farmers, this big "dig-against-famine" campaign is not so easy.

They are faced with two major problems—manpower and the 11th hour nature of the appeal. Their crops were planned months ago and to turn over now to growing more wheat means upsetting all their carefully-made plans and in many cases putting spring sown wheat into not too suitable ground.

Their greatest problem is manpower. To implement the new campaign, it is estimated between 125,000 and 200,000 additional workers are required on the land.

Large numbers of German prisoners of war are being brought into the country from the United States and Canada. But they are coming to replace Italian prisoners who are being repatriated and to fill the gaps left by demobilization of thousands of women from the women's land army.

Last year some 2,200,000 acres of land were under wheat compared with 1,900,000 in 1938. However, this was 880,000 acres less than in 1944.

ASKS INFORMATION

Admiral Doenitz Demands Disclosure Of U.S. Orders To Subs

NUERNBERG.—Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz demanded before the international military tribunal that Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz submit a sworn statement to show that United States submarines operated under "sink without warning" orders.

He also requested that British admiralty files be opened to disclose the combat orders given to British merchant ships.

Through his lawyer, the man who directed the Nazi U-boat campaign informed the tribunal that he expected submission of an interrogatory to the United States naval commander to show that:

1. United States submarines attacked all ships with the exception of United States and Allied vessels without warning in specified operational waters.

2. "United States submarines attacked all Japanese ships without warning, at least from the time it could be surmised that Japanese merchantmen would resist being taken as prizes."

3. "United States submarines did not assist shipwrecked people in such waters where a submarine would have endangered herself through such assistance."

Doenitz' counsel, Capt. Otto Kranzbuehler, told the tribunal that Admiral Nimitz' replies would prove the United States "made the same strategic and legal considerations in carrying out its submarine warfare... and gave identical orders as the German naval high command."

STOCKS REDUCED

Sharp Drop From Last Year In Canada's Canned Goods

OTTAWA. Stocks of canned fruits and vegetables held by canners, wholesale dealers and chain store warehouses Jan. 1 were lower than holdings at the same date last year, the Dominion bureau of statistics has reported.

Canned fruit stocks amounted to 1,861,422 dozen cans compared with 2,286,514 in 1945, while canned vegetables totalled 8,683,160 dozen cans compared with 10,691,113. Stocks of jams, jellies, marmalades, apple juice, tomato juice, tomato catsup and canned soups also were reduced.

WILL SAIL SOON

OTTAWA.—It was reliably learned here that Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, governor-general designate of Canada, will sail from a British port March 29 and arrive in Canada about April 4. The present governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, will leave Canada shortly after he opens the new session of Parliament March 14.

In measuring snowfall, 10 inches of snow ordinarily equals one inch of water, according to weathermen.
